Butler, Brooks, Blaue—death calling an alphabetical list of our great men?

Notwithstanding the energetic warfare instituted by Senator Wolcott of Colorado upon the new Columbian postage stamps, those expansive specimens of chromatic art are still at the front. Evidently they have come to stick.

Published figures show that the number of persons killed at grade crossings in the city of Chicago last year were 325. This is an appalling total. What possible excuse can there be for such wholesale slaughter? It is time for Chicago to give most serious thought to the question of properly guarding these crossings or else of abolishing them altogether. One death for nearly every day in the year is a record both discreditable and disgraceful.

Two children were playing on a railroad track near Pittsburgh one evening last week when an engine came back down upon them without their knowledge. Seeing their peril, an Italian ran to their aid, caught them in his arms and saved their lives. He himself was struck by the engine and received probably fatal injuries, literally giving his life for children he did not even know. This man's name, Andrew Pessotti, deserves to be remembered, for he proved himself to be a true hero. Worse subjects for a sermon might easily be found than the gallant dead of Pessotti, who simply acted on a noble impulse and never dreamed that he was doing a grand and heroic thing.

The new Constitution of Kentucky divides the cities and towns of that state, for the purpose of organization and government, into six classes," says The Cincinnati Tribune, and requires that the powers of each class shall be defined and provided for by general laws.

The necessity is, therefore, imposed upon the various municipalities in the commonwealth of recasting the heterogeneous laws which have been in power. In Louisville, the only city of the first class, a committee of three competent gentlemen, appointed by its Mayor, drafted a lengthy and elaborate act, to be submitted to the Legislature for the government of that city. The work of the committee has not, however, been altogether satisfactory to the official classes, and this week the committee of the Legislature having the matter in charge will listen to arguments from representatives of the conflicting interests. On the other hand, the draft of the act which has been introduced in the Legislature for the government of cities of the second class, which includes Covington, Newport and Lexington, seems to have been prepared by and in the interest of the official classes and of those particular members of the official class now in office. The citizens of Covington and Newport who are interested solely in local government have, therefore, taken up the matter and prepared an act differing in many important particulars from the one already submitted to the Legislature. The efforts of our neighbors in the making of municipal laws will be watched with interest in Cincinnati, where municipal government has not yet grown beyond the experimental stage. As The Tribune is pledged to the cause of municipal reform, it will notice and criticize from time to time what may be done in that direction in Kentucky.

ACCORDING to tradition women are never ready in time, and yet the Woman's Building was the first of the structures at the World's Fair to receive its roof and to be prepared for its contents, and, as far as can be determined, the women will still lead the procession in all the details and ramifications of receiving and installing exhibits. The Woman's Department has but three rooms, furnished with nine desks, and presided over by nine states, which is the center around which are revolving the patriotic and ambitious impulses of many lands.

The silver product of the United States for 1892, according to the Wells-Fargo report, was worth $50,607,501 against $60,614,000 in 1891. The actual decrease in the quantity of silver produced cannot be deducted from these figures, as the average price of silver for 1892 was much lower than that of 1891. It is evident that falling prices have not yet reached a price low enough to materially curtail production. The output of the Mexican silver mines for 1892 shows an increase over the preceding year of nearly ten million ounces.

People who are nervous and superstitious to anything of the kind they have ever before used, they are almost sure to tell their friends about it, and especially if they know of some friends needing such an article. Dealers also soon learn the true value of their goods, and when they sell the article of which they will almost invariably mention the fact to their customers. This accounts in a great measure for the large sales on Chamberlain's Comb. There are, however, W. L. Needham, a prominent citizen and businessman of Owsboro, Mo., has been selling Chamberlain's Comb Remedy for several years and recommends it to customers, because in his experience it has proven to be a safe, safe, safe, croup and whooping-cough. He says it is the most popular medicine that he handles, and gives the best satisfaction. Fifty cent bottles for sale by Power & Reynolds, druggists.

AN EXPLOSION

Of Natural Gas at Urbana Leaves a Home.

The Mother and Daughter Killed and the Father Wounded.

The Ruins Take Fire and Spread to Adjoining Residences—Escaping Gas in the Cellar, Ignited by a Grate Fire, Is What Caused the Disaster.

URBANA, O., Feb. 4.—Friday evening an explosion of natural gas occurred at the residence of John D. Shoafstall, a widow, who resided in a two-story brick church street, and briefly told the frightful result of the concussion, as is follows:

Miss Nellie Shoafstall, aged 25 years, skull crushed, right eye removed from socket, nose broken, otherwise injured. Died within two hours.

Mrs. S. C. Clark, mother-in-law of Mr. Shoafstall, collar-bone broken, scalp cut and badly burned. Her death occurred at 10 o'clock Thursday night.

Mr. Shoafstall, hair burned from head and terribly bruised about the body, the result of a chimney falling on him.

These were the only occupants of the residence. The home in which the family lived was leveled to the ground by the force of the explosion, and the ground to the adjoining residence of L. A. Steinbarger, and his house was destroyed by fire and Dr. Kerr's residence was damaged by fire and water. The terrible catastrophe caused the wildest scenes of alarm and consternation in the city, and thousands of persons hurried to the scene to view the awful wreck.

Inquiry into the cause of the explosion developed these facts: Wednesday night a break in the pipe line from Mechanicsburg to Lancaster, in the county seat, which cuts off the supply of gas for this city. This was repaired Friday, and at 5 o'clock Friday evening R. S. Pierce, superintendent of the gas office, turned on the supply station from the field lines ten pounds of gas per minute to the gas company in the city. This pressure is reduced to four ounces by automatic regulators for the low pressure lines, off of which consumers are supplied.

These regulators were not in proper working order, instead of reducing the supply to four ounces, there were ten pounds of pressure. This caused many of the tin gas meters to burst. This was the case at Mr. Shoafstall's and the escaping gas met the cellar and kitchen pipes. Mr. Shoafstall lighted his grate fire, the burning gas ignited and the frightful result followed. He loses everything he had, as there was no insurance.

Mrs. Clark had considerable money in cash in her house, and this was lost or buried in the earth. In the meantime when the fires were lighted slight explosions occurred, causing many scares. This is the first accident of any kind happening in this city, from the use of natural gas, and has spread considerable alarm.

Mr. L. A. Steinbarger, the plumber, was the hero of the occasion. While his own home was going up in smoke he went to the regulators and cut off the gas supply, thereby preventing a greater disaster. Mayor McGarry called a special meeting of the city council Friday night to take proper action and furnish relief. Messrs. Anderson, Breman and McGarry were appointed a committee of the council to take charge of the matter.

Col. L. E. Hart, in charge.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Feb. 4.—On account of the very severe weather and the enfeebled physical condition of Col. R. W. Thompson, his physician positively refuses to allow the colonel to undertake the journey to Washington until the weather improves. Col. Thompson was very desirous of getting away Friday but had to forego his trip in deference to the desires of his physician and his children.

The Liberty Bell Goes to the Fair. HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 4.—In response to the request of the manager of the World fair, Executive Commissioner Farquhar says: "There has been a good deal of idle talk in the papers about the Liberty bell going in the government building or elsewhere, but arrangements have been made to have this bell in one of the Pennsylvania buildings were completed last May and it will be delivered to us at the proper time."

A School Teacher Abducted.

HUTCHINSON, Kas., Feb. 4.—The young woman found unconscious in a haystack at Clayton, Mo., a few days ago, was a school teacher of the Kansas City, who was abducted from her school, about fifteen miles north of here, two weeks ago. The Kansas Salt Co., of this city, has sent a party to trawl her and her kidnapper and bring the young lady home.

Not a Suspicion.

CALCUTTA, Feb. 4.—A deputation of native and European members of the World fair board, Executive Commissioner Farquhar says: "There is an understanding that the office contemplates the handing of all receipts except gate money."

Kauaihau's "Liebel."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Dr. Mott Smith, representative and treasurer of the Franklin Institute of Hawaii, says he never heard of John J. Cleghorn, who claims to be a brother of Prince Kauihau's father. He says he knew the father well, but never heard he had a brother.

Die the Firm's Funeral.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4.—The Central Savings Fund, Trust and Safe Deposit Co. here, has disappeared, and it is now thought his accounts are short some $1,000,000.

Heavy Rail Failure.

THE BANCOS, Feb. 4.—The Banco de Roma Y La Plata has suspended payment, in consequence of the losses sustained in gold speculation by the manager of the concern. These losses amount to $1,000,000.

A MORNING FIRE.

Three Dead and Three Others Fatally Injured—Fire Believed to be of Accidental Origin.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—A family consisting of Morris Cohen, his wife, Sophia, and their baby and the servant were suffocated by a fire at their home, 175 Orchard street, early Friday morning. Three other persons were not killed. Morris Cohen, 60; his wife, Jacob Cohen and Pauline Goldberg, 13.

The members of the Cohen family were suffocated and their bodies were found by the firemen, after the blaze had been extinguished. One of them was the fireman of incendiary origin. When the fire was discovered by a policeman smoke was pouring from the windows of the house and the fire-escape was already crowded with white-bloused figures. There was a crush at the door.

The frightened tenants had been awakened from a sound sleep, and attempted to escape by the stairway. They could get no further, however, than the second floor, where they were met and driven back by a burst of smoke and flames.

Firemen soon arrived on the scene and helped the people down the fire-escape. Ladders were run up against the house, and the work of rescuing those who were still in the building was begun. There were about forty small children in the house, and these the firemen and policemen carried down in their arms from all the rooms that it was possible to reach.

Most of the extinguished had died, and the fire had about been placed under control when it was discovered that a sad tragedy had attended the blaze.

The firemen went through the building. They found nothing until they reached the top floor. In a rear apartment the firemen saw the bodies of the Cohens—husband, wife and baby. They had evidently slept long after the fire had started and were almost suffocated in their sleep.

We now have two Squires and a Constable almost in sight of this place. Keep quiet.

The protracted meeting convenes at the Stone Church the second Sunday in the month.

Heckin the groundhog saw his shadow Thursday, but we are not satisfied yet. George Taylor used to say when Smith Mitchell came out of Green Hollow just below Springdale that winter was over. Now, Mr. Springdale takes a different view, like us, for we want a sharp lookout, and if anything unusual comes out of there any ways soon, please advise us of the fact at once.

THE LEDGER may have received a postal from Specials asking what he had done. Let me tell you that he had about the late cold snap while his better half pulled splinters off the fence posts to keep the fire going. He has our sympathy. Besides, the old lady did just as well in taking care of the old gentleman. It would be a hard matter to get another one like him if he was gone.

EARL CLARKSVILLE.

Nellie Barkley has the measles.

The groundhog saw his shadow.

Oscar Foudray is on the sick list.

F. M. C. is our clever merchant, was in Maysville Tuesday.

Harian Teager, our bachelor friend, who has been down for some time with the measles, was able to visit James H. Barkley Saturday.

Rev. James H. Wallingford of Orangefield was in town with his wife and family last Sunday. He was accompanied by Miss Amber, who will remain several days.

We had two more citizens to move in last week—William Cox to the river recently occupied by Dr. Pollett and a Mr. Halfhill from Beaufort, who has farmed lately purchased of William Hardiman.

R. J. Bozzi, one of our best citizens, is now in Kansas looking out a location with the intention of moving his family there if he is favorably impressed with the country. We should be sorry to lose such elegant people.

SPRINGDALE.

Jannie Vawter is quite sick.

Tobacco is coming in rapidly.

No damage done by the river.

Dr. W. H. Gutter, our clever tooth-puller of Pineville, was in Springdale this week.

Nearly all the tobacco is striped in these parts, and there are some very fine crops.

The groundhogs, dysphemia, and cold weather have all tried to break up our cold school, but can't.

G. D. Jenkins will go to Cincinnati soon to purchase a horse with a view of starting an undertaking shop here.

Young Mr. Lewis is on Sunday in Maysville, and was royally entertained in the delightful family of H. C. Barkley.

Mr. Thorogood of the "State of Lewis" is here trying to ship some tobacco to Cincinnati, but the road is doing such an immense local traffic that it is difficult to secure a single car.
